

DocsCorp compliance program for Windows Vista, Microsoft Office 2007 and Adobe Acrobat/Reader for Windows Vista

Sydney, Australia and New York, United States—December 15, 2006—

DocsCorp, a global leader in PDF integration technology, announces its commitment to compliance with Microsoft Windows Vista and Microsoft Office 2007 across the entire pdfDocs Solutions Suite of products.

Microsoft Corporation has announced that their new operating system, Windows Vista and Microsoft Office 2007 will be publicly released on 30 January, 2007. pdfDocs release dates will coincide with Microsoft's public releases and are provided to clients without any additional charge as part of their standard maintenance contract with DocsCorp.

DocsCorp President Dean Sappey spoke about the compliance program saying that "there are a number of fundamental differences in Windows Vista and Office 2007, ranging from cosmetic changes to functional and architectural changes. DocsCorp has performed comprehensive testing of its pdfDocs products on pre-release versions of Windows Vista and Microsoft Office 2007 in preparing our releases."

The Vista compliant pdfDocs Solution Suite is also tested and compliant with Adobe Acrobat / Adobe Reader for Windows Vista.
