

DocsCorp announces its presence in the UK

Sydney, Australia and London, UK — 15 July , 2008 — DocsCorp, a global leader in PDF integration technology, today announced its new presence in the UK to support increasing demand for its pdfDocs Solutions Suite software. Paul Darby has also been appointed to the role of Consultancy and Training Manager, EMEA.

The addition of Darby means that DocsCorp can support its European customers, distributors and resellers by providing a true 24/7 environment with its own qualified service and support engineers. DocsCorp will also be expanding its sales and channel sales development efforts to include EMEA and is actively building distributor and reseller partner programs to further extend its reach.

“I am excited about joining the DocsCorp team,” says Darby. “Its pdfDocs software is the only PDF management solution fully integrated into document and practice management systems (Interwoven, Open Text, NetDocuments, Lexis Nexis and WORLDOX). It will be particularly appealing to companies of all sizes as it gives them everything they need to manage their business-critical documents—PDF creation, binding, collation, annotation, redaction, form filling, OCR and document comparison.”

“Growing adoption and successful implementations of our software have increased throughout the UK and Europe,” said David Woolstencroft, Vice President Worldwide Sales and Marketing. “Adding someone with Paul’s discipline, energy and expertise to the team enables us to better support our partners’ sales activities. His wealth of experience and in-depth understanding of document management system implementations will be extremely valuable to our clients and partners.”

Prior to DocsCorp, Darby worked for IT management consultants Calvis and MJM Solutions as a document management system implementation consultant. Previously, Darby worked for the National Westminster Bank in various IT roles: support, implementations, training and managing a support team.
